About two p.m. the "Tigers," of London, and the "Excelsiors," of Strathroy—both second-class clubs—began a match in the Infantry Barrack Square, with but a slim audience, consequent upon the first-class match being played in the cricket field at the same time. Still the particular favorites of each club were there assembled, and cheered lustily during the progress of the match. The Tigers played a crack game, some splendid batting and sharp fielding being done, and won by the following score:
